Infiltrating Viet Cong forces advance to center of Saigon

Challenges mark Paris peace talks

PARIS (AP) — The United States and North Vietnam threw challenges at each other Friday in a session that produced some pointed exchanges but no sign of progress for the stalled preliminary Vietnam peace talks.

The sixth meeting of U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator, and Xuan Thuy, representative of North Vietnam, was marked by mutual scolding with something like a hint of rising frustration on both sides.

The North Vietnamese rebuffed all U.S. proposals for joint action that might scale down the war in Vietnam.

The United States dubbed "fantastic" suggestion by the North Vietnamese that the two issue a joint communique saying the United States would end bombing and acts of war against North Vietnam and Hanoi would abstain from bombing and acts of war against the United States.

Hanoi has been saying all along that the North Vietnamese are not bombing the United States and that thus it owes nothing in return for a halt to the American bombardment. "You have made a fantastic suggestion," a U.S. spokesman said, retorting. "I ask you if you are prepared to rephrase your proposal and deal with real issues."

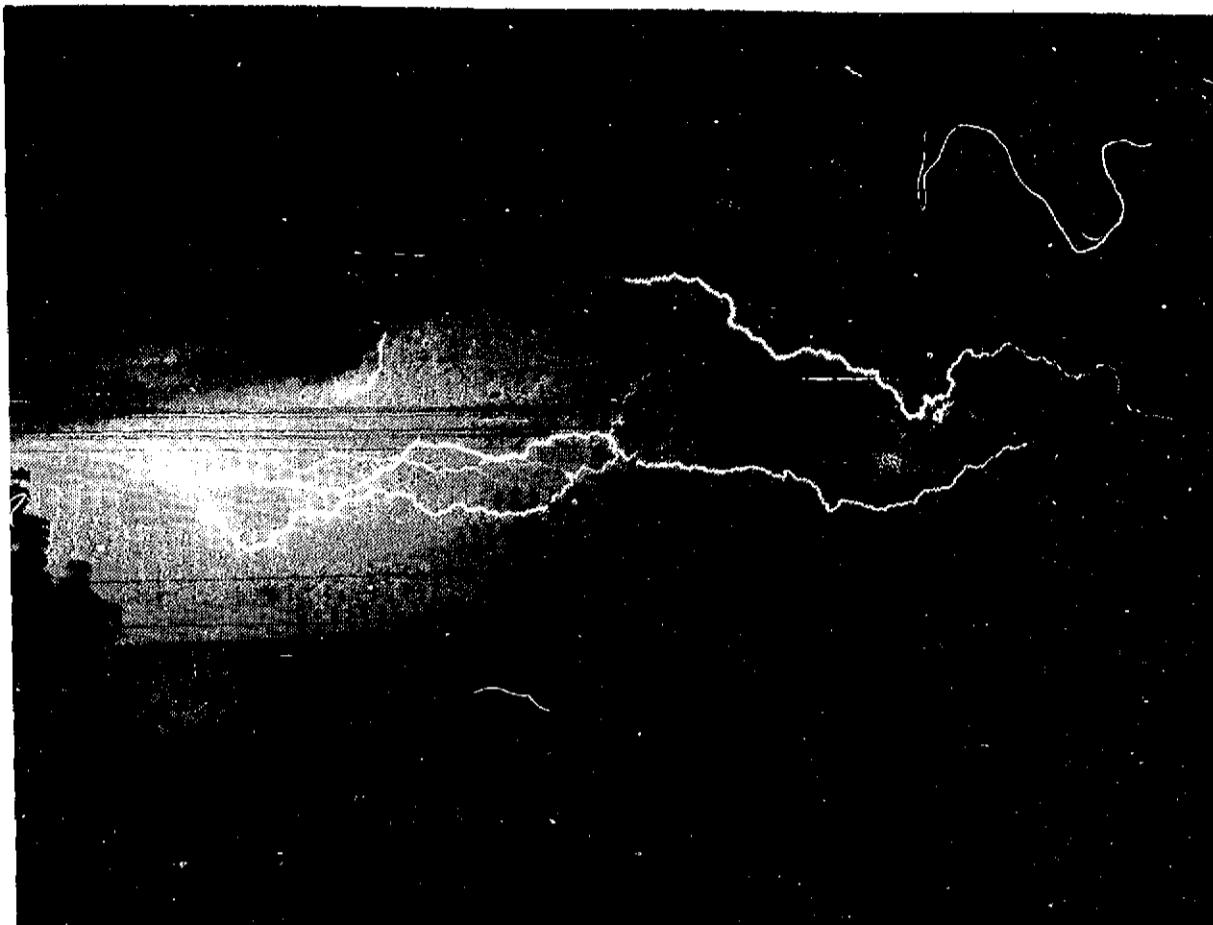

Harriman challenged Thuy to revise the suggested communique to read that the United States would end its bombing and acts of war if, "for its part the Democratic Republic of Vietnam will henceforth refrain from bombing, acts of war and subversion against the Republic of Vietnam."

William J. Jorden, the U.S. spokesman, said Thuy rejected this. He also rejected U.S. efforts to get an agreement on re-establishing the demilitarized status of the buffer zone between North and South Vietnam.

M. C. Weston Jr., chief negotiator for the union, described the Alcoa agreement as the "pattern-setter" for the industry. He said the three-year package added 55.9 cents per hour on the average to wages in the industry.

Weston said the base wage under the old contract averaged $3.09.

The key agreement covers 11,000 United Steelworkers at eight operating locations.

Hope for missing Scorpion proves to be false alarm

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Navy divers inspected a sunken bulk off Cape Henry Friday and reported it is not the missing USS Scorpion.

Eighteen divers were sent to check out the object detected in 100 feet of water 70 miles out and somewhat off the Atlantic course the missing submarine and its crew of 99 should have been on.

Even before they reported back, Vice Adm. Arnold F. Schade told newsmen the chance of it being the Scorpion were "almost nil."

Schade said the submarine Pargo detected the sunken metallic object Thursday but there was "no sound, no noise, no sign of life."

When divers from the submarine rescue ship Sunbird reached the bulk, they found it probably was a World War II submarine, possibly German.

For one thing they said it had a gun mount located forward of the conning tower. The Scorpion's hull was barren of any such device.

Eight from Pennsylvania on Scorpion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is the latest list of Pennsylvanians aboard the overdue submarine Scorpion, as announced by the Defense Department:

Storekeeper I.C. Larry L. Hess, husband of Mrs. Mary A. Hess, Chambersburg; Seaman Technician 3.C. Michael E. Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy E. Henry, Monroeville; Torpedo Mate 3.C. Robert P. Violette, son of Salvatore Violette, Newton Square and Seanan Ronald A. Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Regis A. Frank, Pittsburgh.

Also, Machinist's Mate First Class Dennis C. Knapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Knapp, Claysville; Machinist's Mate First Class Robert W. Watson, son of Mrs. Dorothy L. Watson, Tyrone; Lt. William C. Harvi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur G. Harvi, Philadelphia and Fire Control Technician Sennan William R. Fenwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Fenwick, Butler.

Seven of the 23 ministers in the new government kept their old jobs. Among these were Defense Minister Pierre Messmer and Agriculture Minister Edgar Faure.

The entry of three new men who belong to the left wing of the Gaullist movement indicated a slight move of the Cabinet toward the left. Chief among these was the new justice minister, Irene Capitant.

Under questioning by his lawyer, James St. Clair, Coffin said he did not contemplate being charged with conspiracy and did not conspire with anyone to violate the law.

Coffin, 43, and Spuck, 65, are on trial in U.S. District Court with Mitchell Goodman, 44, a New York writer and teacher; Marcus Ruskin, 34, a Washington research director; and Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student.

France appeared to be awakening slowly, painfully from a 15-day nightmare. Back-to-work movements, though still only a trickle, were recorded throughout the country.

The government seemed to be concentrating on getting communications systems operating as soon as possible. Police insisted striking occupants from telephone centers in a host of cities is shifting far out toward the Azores in an area of shallow "sea mounts" where the Scorpion might have been grounded.

This is in the same locale from where it sent a final routine message May 21.

A new search is centered around the Cruiser Banks—as shallow as 100 feet—and the Irving Banks 360 miles south of the Azores. The underwater ridges are within 30 miles of the Scorpion's projected course toward Norfolk.

Meanwhile the Navy, Coast Guard and Federal Communications Commission continued checking out the mysterious voice broadcast that was picked up Wednesday using the Scorpion's code name "Brandywine."

From about 100 miles eastward a group of destroyers followed an ocean path the Scorpion would have taken. These were spaced about 12 hours ahead of a follow-up group of submarines.

Earlier reports told of two rockets landing northwest of Saigon's big Tan Son Nhut airbase. The barrages and the attacks on Saigon are believed designed to influence the Paris talks between the United States and North Vietnam.

Fighting in the Phu Lam section, on Saigon's southwestern side, was reported as "light and sporadic" by government forces. They claimed killing eight Viet Cong in the latest clashes and taking 26 prisoners.

Thirty Viet Cong were reportedly killed early Friday in the northern suburb of Gia Dinh by government troops who rode tanks into positions to block the guerrillas' exits.

A U.S. spokesman said Friday that 58 civilians, 18 of them children, have been killed by Viet Cong shelling of Saigon during May. He said another 270 persons have been wounded.

500 'Poor People' threaten sit-in WASHINGTON (AP) — Moving under newly emerged leaders, demonstrators in the Poor People's Campaign used a sit-in threat Friday to bring about a meeting with a reluctant Cabinet member.

About 500 marched into headquarters of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, occupied the first-floor auditorium and pressured Secretary Wilbur J. Cohen to answer their demands in person after they had rejected his offer to meet with a small delegation in his office.

Cohen appeared after holding out for about an hour and a half. He had relayed through his assistant secretary, Ralph K. Huitt, an offer to meet four leaders in his office.

Hosea Williams, leading the demonstration, rejected this suggestion and said:

"We want Brother Cohen to come out of that office. If he can't talk now we might just have to stay here until he can."

Cohen brought with him a 35-page document he said was an answer to the "Economic Bill of Rights" presented to government department heads by The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, a few weeks ago as the basic demands of the poor.

Cohen told Williams to present the reply to Abernathy. The secretary, whose appearance was greeted by wild cheers

Guerrillas in shadows of palace

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong infiltrators bored in toward the center of Saigon today and gunfights broke out at intersections. Military reports said guerrillas were spotted within a mile of the Presidential Palace and six blocks from National Police headquarters.

After a flare-lit night of fighting on two sides of the capital, one unconfirmed report said the enemy were trying to reach An Quang pagoda, headquarters of a militant Buddhist faction, which was used as a Viet Cong headquarters during the enemy's lunar new year offensive four months ago.

The pagoda is in the central part of Saigon.

With the latest enemy drive against the capital entering a second week, military spokesman said guerrillas were seen at daybreak in at least eight streets of Cholon, Saigon's Chinese sector. The Viet Cong appeared to be moving in from the 6th Precinct on the southwestern side of the city and through the 5th Precinct. Earlier reports said sniper squads were positioned in tall buildings 1½ miles from the city's center.

The new threat to the downtown area came a few hours after enemy gunners outside the city fired rockets into several sections of the capital. One landed, but did not explode, near a police station in Gia Dinh, on the northwest outskirts where South Vietnamese forces were heavily engaged all day Friday.

Heavy fighting into Friday night also was reported on the northeastern edge of the city.

A government military spokesman reported that South Vietnamese marines killed 100 Viet Cong and captured six Friday in Gia Dinh street battles. Marine casualties were termed light.

The Vietnamese command also reported a 100-round mortar and rocket barrage early today into and around Tan An.

Earlier reports told of two rockets landing northwest of Saigon's big Tan Son Nhut airbase. The barrages and the attacks on Saigon are believed designed to influence the Paris talks between the United States and North Vietnam.

Doing 'one's thing'

STROUDSBURG — It amazed me to learn that college students are urged by some professors to leave church-type worship and "go off and do their religious thing."

The students are told that it does not matter what they do, as long as it fulfills their spiritual need. It could be sitting contemplating, counting flower beads, or strumming a guitar.

Anything, as long as the individual was able to express himself in some sort of a religious way.

The popular cry today is that the church has failed in the tempo of modern times, and,

A brief reception will follow the service in the parish auditorium.

Seminary graduation today

MYERSTOWN — The thirteenth annual Commencement of the Evangelical Congregational School of Theology, Myerstown, will be held in the seminary chapel today at 10 a.m. An organ recital by Albert Schuster, organist of the Seibert Evangelical Congregational Church, Allentown, will be presented beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The president of the seminary, Dr. Harold H. Scanlin, will introduce the speaker. The invocation will be given by Dr. John A. Smith, Bishop Emeritus of the E. C. Church. The eastern district Superintendent of the East Pennsylvania Conference, Rev. J. Karl Harper, will read the Scripture lesson and prayer will be offered by the Rev. Herbert D. Wittmaier, Superintendent of the western district.

"Doing one's thing" may be man's way, but it certainly is not God's way. We either worship Him in the way that He wants us to, or we do not in truth worship Him at all!

I am concerned about souls going to Hell. I am concerned about the lost and confused people of today. The spirit of youth today is one of "searching for truth" but the real way of truth they choose to ignore.

It is up to us, to, by example, and courageous witnessing, lead lead them to know the saving power of Christ and the value of a Christ centered life.

The candidates for graduation will be presented by the Rev.

Dr. Kenneth R. Maurer, Dean of the Seminary, to the Rev.

Harrison S. Hefner, who will award the degrees.

Church membership in county totaled 25,675 during 1967

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Protestant and Roman Catholic church membership in Monroe County last year totaled 25,675, according to the State Department of Internal Affairs, which noted that the county had 64 Protestant churches and three Catholic parishes within its borders.

As for the Jewish religion, the department said the figures were not available covering Orthodox Jews — only Conservative and Reform Jews, and these covered families belonging to a synagogue, not individual membership. One Conservative synagogue was listed for Monroe County, with 77 families.

The three parishes in the county were reported serving an estimated 6,255 Roman Catholics.

On the other hand, the 64 churches in the county were recorded as serving 19,420

Protestants, with breakdowns as follows:

Lutherans — 16 churches with a membership of 3,652; Methodists — 20 churches and a membership of 11,418; United Presbyterians — five churches serving a membership of 1,619; United Church of Christ — 13 churches with a membership of 1,693; Evangelical United Brethren — three churches, membership of 204; Protestant Episcopal — two churches and a membership of 383; American Baptist — one church, 60 members; Church of the Brethren (none listed); Mennonite (none listed); Greek Orthodox (none listed); Evangelical Congregational (none listed); "others" — five churches, 391 members.

Statewide, the total includes 1,562 Roman Catholic parishes comprising a membership of 3,648,725 and 9368 Protestant churches with a membership of 2,722,886, plus 121 Conservative and Reform synagogues comprising 38,218 Jewish families.

A Poor Substitute

"Church services are dull, boresome and uninteresting. I derive much more good from getting close to nature, a walk through the woods, a trip to the lake or viewing the mountain." One often hears such statements from those who attend church only on special occasions, if at all.

People who make these statements simply do not know what they are missing. They do not know the deep inner satisfaction to be gained from regular church attendance. They have allowed a single experience or two, possibly at some ill conducted service, to warp their opinion about all church services.

No one will deny the joy and exhilaration of viewing nature's wonders but they no more take the place of the church service than they satisfy one's craving for good music. You are missing out if you don't attend church regularly.

Up Milford Way

Chamber of Commerce woes

By NORMAN B. LEHDE

MILFORD — Most of the older residents of Pennsylvania are familiar with the "Pinchot Roads." "Get the farmer out of the mud" was the slogan with which Gifford Pinchot, while Governor of the Commonwealth, initiated an extensive road building program in an era when an automobile was still an almost useless piece of equipment during many months of the year.

We may be on the threshold of the era of the "Pinchot School," as a result of the recent three-day conference on School Site and Architectural Planning at the Pinchot Institute. Within a few days after the close of the conference, plans are already being drawn for the evaluation of a number of school sites along the lines of the recommendations of the National Council for School Site Planning.

The program will be coordinated by the Pinchot Institute and the "Pinchot School" may well become a coast-to-coast innovation of the future. What is a Pinchot school? It is a school where the immediate schoolgrounds and surrounding area are utilized as "a land for learning." This means not only the presence of an outdoor laboratory, but utilization of microclimatic studies in the general landscaping, i.e. The use of a row of trees as a wind breaker or a snow drift barrier.

Is the land for learning an end in itself? No, educators and

Dorflinger craft

Area woman tells glass story

GREENTOWN — Interesting facts concerning "The Dorflinger Glass Story" have been published in The Antiques Journal this month, and the story is the work of Mrs. Fred Hart of Greenetown, R.D.

Joann and Fred Hart became interested in antiques when they lived in Germantown, Philadelphia, in 1932. They purchased first a pair of brass candlesticks, and then a deep, dropleaf table, and their future in collecting antiques was sealed.

They gradually eliminated the new and the reproductions from their household furnishings, and added authentic antiques instead. And their home, "Hart's Sugar Hill," on the Rennselaer-Newfoundland Road, shows their success.

Permanent residents

The Harts came to Sugar Hill as a summer home in 1945, and then, after several years, conservationists (and we can now add a growing list of architects) consider it only a means to teach the total environment concept. The use of the natural facilities of the school grounds, which may range from a stubborn rock formation to a cluster of wild flowers, can serve the teacher in geology, biology, mathematics, home economics and art.

You will be hearing more about the Pinchot School as the efforts of the National Council for School Site Planning spread across the national scene.

THE PIKE County Chamber of Commerce continues to have problems. While a goodly number of ballots had been received by the time of the membership meeting on Monday evening the failure of a quorum to be present, prevented the counting of the ballots and postponed the election of Directors until the June meeting.

Three teams from Marsch-Kellogg Post, American Legion, will be competing in the Department of Pennsylvania Bowling Tournament at Wyomissing, next weekend. They will roll their team event on Saturday evening, June 8, and participate in doubles and singles on Sunday afternoon, June 9.

THE FOURTH Place award won by the Milford Garden Club in the 1966-67 Better Community moved to the Poconos permanently. They have an antique shop where they sell refinished antique furniture and some glassware and other treasures.

Joann Hart grew up in Casper, Wyoming, after leaving the Black Hills of South Dakota after the influenza epidemic of 1918-19 took both of her parents.

She became interested in Dorflinger Glass after visiting the Dorflinger mansion near Honesdale. She toured the 36-room mansion which had been built in 1908 by Christian Dorflinger, learning that he had been born in 1828 in France, and had come to America at an early age.

Began in Camden

Christian Dorflinger and his brother started their American workdays in Camden, N.J., where the company manufactured glass bottles for druggists. The "invention" of oil lamps gave Christian an opportunity to design the first oil lamp chimney.

Successful and prosperous in his own business which he started in Brooklyn, N.Y., he worked long hours and then heard his doctor tell him that he "must take a rest." The 35-year-old man bought a farm near Honesdale for his enforced retirement.

Glasshouse

Restless, he began a small glass house, and from this inauspicious beginning came the White House glassware which Abraham Lincoln ordered and for which Mary Todd Lincoln signed the invoice amounting to $1,500.

The Dorflinger mansion burned on March 2, 1961, and its burning fired in Joann Hart a desire to tell the Dorflinger story. The project has taken her to many sources of information.

Mrs. Elsie Arnold

Kresgeville's businesswoman

BY FRED WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

KRESGEVILLE — Although it has become more common, it is still a noted event when a woman can be singled out for playing the multiple role of wife, mother and business woman.

There can be certain moments when one part just does not get along with the other, but the strength in the total personality makes them compatible, especially when that person derives joy in doing all of them.

To single out such a sparkling combination, you may choose to talk to Mrs. Elsie Arnold who can tell you of the rewards in running the Sunset Diner in Kresgeville, being mother to a son aged 18, a son aged 16, a daughter aged 10 and a half and more recently a son, three months old. You can add being wife to Edward Arnold, regional manager for North Atlantic Investors Life Insurance Company.

Began five years ago

Mrs. Arnold was looking for a little more "action" after all the kids were at school just about five years ago. The Sunset was up for a bid and Representatives of the Sussex County and Deepark Historical Societies appeared favorable to the idea of an organization which might prove very helpful in the preservation of historical sites in the area and their use as tourist attractions. It is expected that a meeting will be held this summer to discuss the idea in further detail.

HIGHWAY Department workers were marking traffic lines in the borough this week when the rains arrived and all efforts came to a halt.

MILFORD — Graduation

ceremonies for Delaware Valley

High School seniors will be

June 7 in the high school auditorium. Class night will be on June 6.

Baccalaureate services for the graduating seniors and their families will be 8 p.m. Sunday in the Milford Presbyterian Church sanctuary.

The Rev. Robert Kirk, pastor of the Matamoras Methodist Church, will be the featured speaker at the Baccalaureate service.

Three honor students will be speakers during the commencement June 7. The three will speak on phases of "Freedom with Responsibility." The speakers are:

Larry Myer, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Myer of Milford; Robert Kenney, son of Dr. and Mrs. Clair Kenney of Matamoras; Teresa Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown of Trinidad and formerly of Matamoras.

Teresa Brown returned to Delaware Valley High School two weeks ago to graduate with her class. Her father, an employee of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, was assigned to Trinidad during the school year. Teresa was tutored in Trinidad and continued her Delaware Valley School studies via mail.

Mrs. Edward Arnold shares a happy thought with son, Wayne, who will be leaving for Lima, Peru in June, as an exchange student.

It's really funny, though how I got into this diner business since I had only been in regular restaurants before this and never really knew much about the diner; but I guess I just can't stay out of the kitchen; I just love to cook and clean and fuss around the kitchen."

Elsie, a former Burger, says she still likes to talk Dutch and has a chance to do it every day with her steady local customers.

It is a surprising kick to a first impression of simple lady-like motives when you first meet up with a particular person like Elsie and then suddenly hear the blunt, peculiar mixture of Pennsylvania Dutch pour out casually, like "veeah schmeek'ts" (how does it taste); "isch's recht" (is it right) and an answer

Hope key word in our future

"Hope" was the key word in the inspiring address delivered by Rep. Fred B. Rooney from the steps of the Monroe County Courthouse Thursday morning.

The word actually set the theme for our entire celebration of Memorial Day. It carried our thoughts from the past right up to the current moment.

As Rooney spoke it was evident that thoughts of his audience were turning back to other days and other places and the result was apparently a warm feeling generated by thoughts of a job well done.

Although the United States has built its gigantic image through peaceful means, it has been forced to go to war to protect its own boundaries and the makeup of the world on several occasions.

As history relates, many lives were lost down through the years, but on this Memorial Day date each year we realize that the sacrifice of life hasn't been in vain.

As Rooney spoke of hope Thursday, one couldn't help but think back to his own individual hopes through the years and the hopes of his nation that have grown into reality.

The United States and its inhabitants have accomplished the "impossible" on many occasions in order to turn their hopes into realities.

As Rooney traced America's growth on hope through the years, it was heartening to know that many men and women with ties in Monroe County played major roles in building our nation.

It was reassuring that our present hopes for Monroe County and our nation will also become realities because the same driving forces are present today as were on the horizon in the past.

However, we must all assure ourselves that each of us is ready to be driven as were those who came before us. We must be ready to make the necessary sacrifices to turn our hopes into realities.

We must continue to hope and we must show added strength to improve the lot of Monroe County, the state of Pennsylvania and the United States in general.

It will take a lot of strength on all our parts.

Flood thoughts return

Three straight days of rain and at least a trace of showers on 21 of 30 days in May have returned many thoughts in Monroe County to those frightening days of 1955.

Heavy rain, high creeks, water over roadways and other signs of danger naturally turn everybody's thoughts to the worst disaster to ever strike the Pocono Mountains.

It also serves as a puzzle. It brings to the front the need of a system of dams along the Brodhead Creek to safeguard that section of the county and all localities down stream.

Right now the construction of the network of proposed dams is stalemated over problems connected with land acquisition.

There is a real problem involved in the obtaining of some tracts of land. But, the necessity of building these dams is evident and all avenues of cooperation should be investigated with the aim of resuming serious discussions toward the construction of these flood guards.

Work has been done on the Pocono and McMichaels creeks since the 1955 flood and on sections of the Lower Brodhead. The safeguards taken in past years have been very much in evidence on the Pocono and McMichaels during heavy periods of rain.

Heavy rains also drive home the need for flood protection on the Upper Brodhead as there is land damage with almost every rain. There are many problems in the construction of dams on the Upper Brodhead. But, we feel that all parties concerned should work toward the common goal of safety with the least damage to property possible.

The only way the problems can ever be solved is through constant meetings and thorough discussions. Periodic meetings will never settle the issue.

This week's warning should be heeded. Thorough discussions on the subject should be resumed.

Private mint

Can private enterprise perform public service functions more efficiently than the government?

Private mint
The minting of coins has always been (and will always be) the prerogative of the government. No private business will ever muscle in on this tidy operation. But there is a field for a private mint and one firm has turned it into a smashing success.

The firm is the Franklin Mint of Yeadon, Pennsylvania.

Reagan's running

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — The Reagan-for-President backers have every reason to be sure they already have a candidate.

It is increasingly evident that Governor Ronald Reagan is more than draftable; he is doing his part to help it along.

He is today a candidate on-the-go—willing, ready, active—and his supporters are, too. He has toured 22 states since September.

Visible and behind-the-scenes evidence make it clear that Reagan believes his nomination possible, that he wants to be nominated and is putting up lightning rods to draw the political lightning to the right spot at the right time.

His advocates across the country—and there are many—no longer have any doubt about it.

Those who have watched Reagan and his staff at close hand here in Sacramento never had any doubt about it from the time he became Governor.

The developments which confirm Reagan's open though not quite declared candidacy—and declaration is now only a matter of time and declaration—are these:

ONE — Reagan is bluntly refusing to promote or to lend himself to any alliance with Nelson Rockefeller to try to preclude an early ballot nomination of Richard Nixon. Three reasons. He doesn't want to offend his strongly conservative backers by appearing to deal with the liberal Rockefeller. He does not want to do anything which would openly offend Nixon delegates among whom he has large second-choice support. And instinctively he is against deals.

TWO — In written as well as oral statements

Reagan is announcing flatly that he would refuse any vice presidential nomination. This is the correct and traditional stand of any man who wishes to be nominated for the Presidency.

THREE — Reagan is helping to make possible the renomination of the liberal California Republican Senator, Thomas Kuchel, who faces a tough challenge in the primary June 4 from arch-conservative Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction. This, despite the fact that Kuchel's views and voting record are certainly not Reagan's.

He is doing it by staying neutral and by serving notice to his conservative financial contributors to stay neutral themselves. He has gone so far as to tell them that, if they pour big money into Rafferty's campaign and thus impair Reagan's neutrality, they must separate themselves from the Governor's own inner council.

And why so firm about it? Because Reagan needs to demonstrate party unity in California if he is to be able to present himself to the nominating convention as the best man to produce party unity in the nation as the Presidential nominee.

FOUR — During his recent five-state tour in the South and Midwest, Reagan moved his candidacy more visibly into the open. He began to stress national and international issues. He took pains to relate his record in California to the national scene and to say, in effect, what's good for California is good for the U.S.A. When at airports and party fund-raising rallies, he would see a small forest of Reagan-for-President placards, he would call attention to them by shyly remarking that he "was trying not to see all those signs out there." He was seeing them all right and they were good to the eyes.

Lester Coleman, M.D.

Doctor, I'd like to know

I hardly pick up a newspaper or magazine without seeing a warning about cataracts and glaucoma being responsible for blindness. Like all elderly people, I live in constant fear of it's health, but I am particularly scared about losing my vision.

When the eye tears a great deal is it a sign that some form of trouble, either a cataract or glaucoma, is forming? I notice that it is worse after I watch television for even a reasonable period of time.

Mrs. J. S., Ohio

Dear Mrs. S.: I am afraid that medical education of the public can sometimes become frightening and undo all the good it starts out to do. It is my personal feeling that when people are bombarded with statistics of blindness, deafness, cancer, arthritis, tuberculosis and a host of other diseases, they eventually pay a penalty by being unnecessarily "scared to death" as you have been.

Yes, cataracts and, particularly, unrecognised glaucoma, can be responsible for blindness. Every complete eye examination, however, includes a very simple tonometer measurement of the tension of the fluid within the eye ball. When this is high, drugs are used to control it. In some cases, it is necessary for surgery, which is simple and safe, to be performed to prevent damage to sight.

Dr. Byron Smith, a famous eye surgeon at the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital in New York City, has been devoting his energies to a better understanding of the causes and control of the more difficult problems of tearing of the eyes. Before his excellent research, this annoying condition was too casually taken for granted and too readily dismissed. Now the basic cause of tearing is being tracked down, in order to be sure that the same cause is not responsible for any more serious, permanent effects on the eyes, and sight.

Mr. J. S., Ohio

It is my personal feeling that when people are bombarded with statistics of blindness, deafness, cancer, arthritis, tuberculosis and a host of other diseases, they eventually pay a penalty by being unnecessarily "scared to death" as you have been.

JACOB R. STORM, Jr.
Saylorsburg, R.D.1

Editor, The Record:
Not all the taxpayers of Chestnut Hill are going to sign the petition that Mrs. Grogg has initiated.

As far as some of us feel this operation is in perfect order, I think Mr. Tavianini has as much right to start his sand and gravel quarry here in Brodheadsville as any other businessman in the West End.

Opposition will bring into the township.

So I hope when this petition is presented to the township supervisors they will stop and think of the things that this operation will bring into the West End.

JACOB R. STORM, Jr.
Saylorsburg, R.D.1

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This letter has reference to a petition being circulated in Chestnut Hill Township to stop the construction of a quarry by Ivo Tavianini for the Lehigh Valley Sand and Gravel Co. of Easton. The petition was initiated by Mrs. Martha Grogg, Brodheadsville.)

Bums at college

NEW YORK — I said to my friend the cop that I hadn't seen him on our corner lately.

"I've been going to school," he said blandly.

"Columbia," he explained after a bit, "I'm taking course in police brutality."

My friend the cop happens to be one of the gentlest gentleman in town. He's a good husband, father, grandfather and, as we used to say before John XXIII, God-fearing.

I said yes, I had been reading about him and his ilk.

"Funny thing," my friend the cop said, "I've never gone up there with any intention of busting some kid, why should I? I've got kids of my own."

"But a couple of times I've found myself in a scuffle with students about my own size, but younger and I'd guess stronger. We had 13 police hurt there the other night, including a buddy of mine who'll never be the same after that rock in his face.

Well, we can't, unless we want to have a lot of headaches, trials, suspensions, fines, ridicule.

"I feel sorry for Kirk, the president of Columbia," he said, "he'll probably get the boot, after all is said and done. What's happened at the school isn't his fault.

"The only mistake he made was that when those punks took the place over he didn't call us right away. He called the trustees. Most of them bend over backwards so far to be Mortarboard cake for your favorite graduate can be baked without any special pans. The tassel is of string licorice and gum drop.

Sweets to nibble

STROUDSBURG — June means many things to many people. To some it means the time to look forward to a summer vacation; to others in the resort business it means the start of what is hoped will be a good season. To many it means bridal showers and wedding receptions; to young couples it means looking forward to a very special day when they will begin their lives together.

To children it means the beginning of many happy and carefree days. To high school and college seniors it means the culmination of many hours of hard work, an end to a very special part of their lives.

Some will accept the diploma with gratitude, some with relief; others will accept with sadness and others with joy. Some will accept it as an end of a chapter while to others it is only a beginning, a stepping stone to the future.

For whatever reason, you will want to recognize the graduate in your home in some way. Whether it's for a graduation party or family gathering, the cake shown in the photo would make an appropriate edible centerpiece.

No special pans are needed for the batter is baked in one round and one square pan. After the bottom round layer is frosted, the square layer is set on cardboard and put on top.

If you don't have a graduate in your home, you can of course bake this oatmeal cake in regular layer pans.

Mortar Board Dessert

One-third cup shortening, soft
Two-thirds firmly-packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1½ cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
½ cup quick oatmeal, uncooked

Beat shortening and sugar together until creamy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend

Frosting
2 oz. (2 sq.) unsweetened chocolate
1 tablespoon butter
½ cups sifted confectioners sugar
Dash salt
½ cup half and half or light cream
½ teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate and butter over low heat. Add one cup of the confectioners sugar, salt and half and half; beat until smooth. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture starts to bubble. Remove from heat; add vanilla and ½ cup confectioners sugar. Beat until smooth and of desired spreading consistency.

To assemble, place round cake on serving plate. Cut cardboard to fit square cake. Cover with aluminum foil. Place cake on cardboard. Frost tops and sides of cakes. Allow frosting to set. Place square cake and cardboard on top of round cake. Make tassel for mortar board using string licorice and a large gumdrop.

Teenagers are marchers so if you're planning a party for them, have plenty of pick-up foods for them to nibble. These candy nibblers which do not have to be baked are sure to appeal to them and even adults at the party will enjoy the sea foam bars, a bar cookie baked with a meringue topping.

Peanut Buttons
2 cups sifted confectioners sugar
½ cup light cream
1 cup pancake syrup
2 tablespoons creamy peanut butter
½ cup chopped dry roasted peanuts

Combine sugar, cream and syrup in saucepan. Cook, stirring occasionally, to soft ball stage (236 degrees) or until syrup dropped into very cold water forms soft ball.

Remove from heat. Add peanut butter; blend well. Stir in peanuts. Immediately drop by teaspoons onto greased cookie sheets lined with waxed paper. Makes 3½ dozen.

Sea Foam Bars
½ cup butter or margarine, soft
1 cup firmly-packed brown sugar
1 egg, separated
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup uncooked oatmeal
2 tablespoons granulated sugar

Beat butter and sugar together until creamy. Blend in egg yolk. Sift together flour, soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture; blend well. Stir in oats. (Mixture will be crumbly.) Press into ungreased 13x9 inch baking pan.

Beat egg white until frothy. Add cream of tartar. Gradually add sugar; beat constantly until stiff peaks form. Spread over bars. Bake in preheated slow 325 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes. Cool; cut in bars. Makes three dozen.

Scott voted to position on board*Martin appointed to position of full professor at ESSC at Mansfield State College, and then came to the local college as dean of men.

During 35 years as head football coach, he produced five championship teams. Two teams at Gettysburg High School were champions of the Southern Pennsylvania Conference.

Martin did his undergraduate work at West Chester State College in Health and Physical Education and completed liberal arts courses at Gettysburg College. He received his master's degree in Health and Physical Education at Columbia University. He continued his graduate studies at New York University in Guidance and Administration, thus earning the rank of associate professor at ESSC.

Martin taught and coached all sports at Gettysburg High School, served as director of Health and Physical Education at Mansfield State College, since then called Mansfield's Golden Team, was cited that year by newspapers as the best small-college team in the United States. Not only did the team go through its season undefeated, but no opponent was able to score a touchdown against it during the entire campaign.

In his 15 years as head football coach at ESSC, none of his teams posted a losing season, always breaking even or better. One year the team went through undefeated, and another season tied with West

Pointe Manor.

Increased powers proposed for Delaware Commission

PHILADELPHIA — The Delaware River Basin Commission could require regional waste collection and treatment and engage in financing, building and operating such facilities under a proposal announced.

The Commission scheduled a public hearing on the water pollution abatement plan for 1:30 p.m. June 26 here in the auditorium of the American Society for Testing and Materials, 1916 Race St., Philadelphia.

Adoption of the policy for the four-state river basin as part of the agency's Comprehensive Plan would give it the force of law and enlarge upon the basinwide pollution control standards and rules and regulations enacted by the commission over the past 15 months.

To implement the regional policy plan, the commission proposed also that any agency or industry must submit plans for a waste treatment operation to the commission for review upon completion of preliminary engineering. The public hearing will also cover this requirement.

Encouraged operations

The commission said it has for years encouraged sponsors of new waste treatment operations to set up regional facilities with their neighbors, but that late arrival of clearance applications and lack of adopted policy often hampered such efforts.

The commission's proposal says that "the use of water pollution control facilities providing optimum combinations of efficiency, reliability and service area will be required throughout the Delaware River Basin to the maximum extent feasible."

It provides that the commission, which has bonding powers, could develop and operate such facilities "where other appropriate agencies do not provide such services."

The commission said per capita costs for building sewage for 500,000 people is only 60 per cent that of a facility serving 50,000 population and that the smaller system costs nearly twice as much to operate for each person served.

Location of large central treatment facilities results in less controversy over site selection, larger plants can better handle industrial discharges, sludge disposal is easier and cheaper, and large-plant handling cuts down on organic waste demands in the streams, the Commission said.

Good news—earned income taxes deductible in April

By BERT WALTER

Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Several thousand persons living or working within the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg school districts will have an extra deduction from their paychecks beginning with the week of July 1.

The extra deduction will be for the one per cent earned income tax which, as of Friday, has officially been adopted by the two school districts and eight of the 10 municipalities within the districts. The two remaining municipalities will enact the tax this month.

The tax, which will be collected by H.A. Berkheimer Associates of Bangor, will be on one per cent of the gross earnings.

The Stroudsburg School District and the four municipalities within the district were the first to enact the tax this year. The four municipalities are Stroud and Hamilton townships and Delaware Water Gap and Stroudsburg boroughs.

The East Stroudsburg School District was second to adopt the tax this year with four of the six municipalities within the district taking official action immediately afterward. Lehman and Porter townships in Pike County, have advertised an intent to enact the tax. Porter Twp. will adopt the tax June 5 and Lehman on June 14.

Additional municipalities
The other municipalities within the East Stroudsburg District who have adopted the tax are East Stroudsburg Borough, Smithfield, Middle Smithfield and Price Townships.

The Pleasant Valley School District inaugurated the tax in Monroe County, however. The tax was initiated by Pleasant Valley in July, 1966. Chestnuthill, Eldred, Polk and Ross townships are part of the district.

Enactment of the tax means that residents and workers in 12 of the county's 20 townships and boroughs are directly affected by the tax.

Officials of H.A. Berkheimer Associates of Bangor prepare data processing cards on a key punch machine for the one per cent earned income tax which the firm will collect in the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg school districts. Raymond P. Scott, comptroller and treasurer, checks some of the cards Dorothy Burger is punching.

The individuals who have to pay the tax and the employers who have to make the payroll deductions will officially be contacted this month by the Berkheimer firm.

Questionnaires ready

Raymond P. Scott, comptroller and secretary for the H.A. Berkheimer Associates, said Friday that letters and questionnaires will be mailed to employers within the next 10 days.

Letters and questionnaires will be sent to the individuals within the next two weeks.

The questionnaire, Scott explained, will require the name, address and the municipality in which the individual lives.

The letter to the employers states that the tax must be withheld beginning July 1.

Scott explained that employers can remit the tax to Berkheimer Associates either monthly or quarterly. The tax is normally remitted quarterly, however.

The letter to the employers states that the tax for July, August and September will be collected after September 15.

The letter to the individuals explains that the questionnaire must be filled out by all residents within the school district. It also states that persons working outside the school districts, for instance in New Jersey, must still pay the tax. These persons will have to deduct the tax themselves and file quarterly returns.

Location of payments
Scott said that the tax paid by the individual goes to the municipality in which he lives. For instance, a person who lives in Stroud Township, but the one per cent earned income tax paid locally will be deductible on the federal income tax return. Boyd Chapman, Stroudsburg Internal Revenue Agent verified Friday.

Berkheimer Associates will receive six per cent of the tax collected for the first year; five and one-half per cent the second year; five per cent the third year and four and one-half per cent the fifth year.

Employers

The letter to the employers states that the tax must be withheld beginning July 1.

Scott explained that

New course at hospital

EAST STROUDSBURG — A surgical technician trainee course will start next week in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Qualified applicants with high school education and 18 years of age or older can apply in person at the Bureau of Employment Security, 408 Main St., Stroudsburg.

The course is designed to teach trainees how to work with specialized equipment as a member of the operating room team.

Three teachers retiring after 117 years of service

STROUDSBURG — Three retiring teachers from the Stroudsburg Area School District were honored at a retirement party recently at the Buckwood Inn in New Jersey.

Honored were Frances Everitt, first grade teacher; Ruth Everitt, third grade, and Clarence Transue, principal of the Ramsey School.

Frances Everitt began teaching in Sept., 1923, and has taught first grade since then with presentation of gifts by Roger Dunning, elementary school superintendent of the Stroudsburg Area Schools.

Two grades

Mrs. Everitt has taught third and fourth grades in the district for a number of years and said she "would miss" the contact with children and fellow teachers.

Frances Everitt began teaching in Sept., 1923, and has taught first grade since then except for one year in a second grade and said teaching has been "a most rewarding profession."

Two grades

Transue began teaching in Tohayanna Township in 1925 and has since taught in Stroud Township and Stroudsburg's Ramsey School where he became principal in 1956.

The three have a combined teaching experience of 117 and one-half years.

Petitions for new trial filed

STROUDSBURG — Petitions requesting a new trial for two East Stroudsburg residents recently found guilty of possession of narcotics were filed Friday in Monroe County Court by attorneys J. Joseph McCluskey and Peter J. O'Brien.

McCluskey, defense attorney for Georgia Morris, co-defendant in the marijuana case, initially requested permission to file for a new trial immediately following the guilty verdict announced Monday following a four-day court battle in county court.

O'Brien submitted his petition on behalf of William Battle, East Stroudsburg, also found guilty of the narcotics charge.

Robert Lillard, Nashville, Tenn., is co-defense attorney for Battle.

According to attorney McCluskey the following were presented as principle reasons for a new trial by the defense.

The verdict was contrary to evidence; the verdict was contrary to law and the learned court erred in admitting the fruits of the search which were obtained in violation of the rights of the defendant under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments.

Battle and Miss Morris face maximum sentences of five years in prison or $5,000 fine or both after being found guilty by a jury of nine men and three women Monday.

Friday's petitions allege the defendant's rights under the Fourth and Fourteenth amendments were violated with the admission of certain evidence.

The Fourth Amendment included in the Bill of Rights deals with search and seizure regulations declaring the "right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

The defense maintained throughout the trial that a search warrant used at the scene by narcotics agent Edward Slosky was invalid in that it did not specify the upstairs apartment of 28 N. Kistler St., East Stroudsburg, where the raid took place Aug. 16, 1967.

The defense maintained throughout the trial that a search warrant used at the scene by narcotics agent Edward Slosky was invalid in that it did not specify the upstairs apartment of 28 N. Kistler St., East Stroudsburg, where the raid took place Aug. 16, 1967.

Missing man's body found near Reeders

By JIM SHAFER

Pocono Record Reporter

REEDERS — The body of Robert G. Stegway, 50, of Suyerville, N.J., was found Friday at 1:15 p.m. in a culvert sump hole along Rt. 715 by two 14-year-old boys.

An autopsy will be performed today in the General Hospital of Monroe County to establish cause of death. Monroe County Coroner John C. Foeleker said Friday night.

Leon Frailey, 14, of Stroudsburg R.D. 3, and Lindsey Price, Tannersville, were walking alongside the highway when they stepped off the road when a car came toward them.

"We thought it was a dummy when we saw the body, but then we looked down and we saw his hands," Frailey and Price said.

The culvert is located just off Rt. 715 and on the property of William Tari.

Tari, an undertaker from New York, had been in Brooklyn and returned to his Reeders home about 2 p.m.

Tari said that he did not see the body when he drove in the driveway near the culvert.

It is believed that Stegway was walking alongside the highway to his home near Brodheadsville.

William Kresge, deputy Monroe Coroner, released the body to Gantzhorn Funeral Home, Tannersville.

Nine entered in Belmont

Forward Pass heads field in Triple Crown bid today

NEW YORK (UPI)—Calumet Farm's Forward Pass, poised on the brink of turf immortality with a chance to win the triple crown, headed a field of nine 3-year-olds entered Friday for the 100th running of the Belmont stakes Saturday at rebuilt Belmont Park.

Credited with a Kentucky Derby victory through the disqualification of Dancer's Image and an easy winner two weeks later in the Preakness Stakes, Forward Pass gets his chance to join Sir Barton, Gallant Fox, Omaha, War Admiral, Count Fleet, Assault and Citation as a triple crown winner.

But this is a new ball game. For the first time each of the starters face the grueling and taxing task of racing over the 1 1/2-mile distance. The Kentucky Derby was decided at 1 1/4 miles and the Preakness at 1 3/4 miles.

Entered in the Belmont and making a first start in one of the spring classics were: Mrs. Adele Rand's Call Me Prince, King Ranch's Draft Card, Greentree Stable's Stage Door Johnny, Gustave Ring's Ardoise, Watermill Farm's Jade Amicel and C. V. Whitney's Champion.

Round out the field were Bwamazon Farm's T.V. Commercial, who finished fifth in the Kentucky Derby but received fourth money when a post-race urinalysis of Dancer's Image turned up positive, and Tri Colore Stable's Sir Beau, who finished seventh in the Preakness.

Once again Ismael "Milo" Valenzuela rides Forward Pass who has won six of his nine races this year and amassed $130,964. He shoots for a winner's purse of $117,700 in a race worth $161,450. Post time is 5:30 p.m. EDT.

Trainer Henry Forrest is confident that Forward Pass can make it and so is the Belmont Park odds-maker who has installed the son of On-And-On a 4-5 favorite. Forrest had a previous chance to win the Triple Crown when he trained Kauai King for Mike Ford. Kauai King won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness but finished fourth in the final at odds of 3-5 two years ago.

The same fate struck down two Calumet Farm chargers. Pensive and Tim Tam got two-thirds of the job done but faltered in the last test. It also happened to Carry Back and Northern Dancer. Not since Citation in 1948 has a horse been able to win all three.

The second choice was Stage Door Johnny with Heliodoro Gistines up. Stage Door Johnny has started only three times this year but scored impressive victories in his last two races.

Max Hirsch trains Call Me Prince and Draft Card and the young colts will race as an entry. Bill Boland rides Call Me Prince, winner of his four races this year including the Withers Stakes. Johnny Ritz handles Draft Card who has won one of two races this season. The entry was 3-4.

Each of the other starters was a long shot with T.V. Commercial, with Howard Grant riding, considered the best of them at 15-1. Champion, with Manny Yezza in the saddle, was 20-1 while Ardoise, with Brantley Breaux up, Jade Amicel, with Bobby Ussery aboard, and Sir Beau, with Chris Rogers riding, each listed at 30-1.

The inside position went to Ardoise and Jade Amicel were not originally nominated for the Belmont Stakes and their owners each had to pay a $5,000 supplementary fee to make them eligible.

The owners can get their money back with secondary awards. Second place will be worth $25,000 with $12,500 to third and $6,250 to fourth.

With 1 1/2 miles to be covered over the 1 1/2-mile race track and only nine starters, post positions did not have the significance they had in the shorter races.

The inside position went to Call Me Prince. Then in order came Champion Jade Amicel, Ardoise, Stage Door Johnny, Draft Card and Sir Beau on the outside.

Turbine's future in doubt

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The future of turbine in big-time auto racing was up in the air Friday as Bobby Unser celebrated the realization of a long-nourished dream—winning the Memorial Day "500."

Meredith opposed to unions

DALLAS (UPI)—Don Meredith, who just signed a new three-year pact with the Dallas Cowboys estimated to bring him upwards of $175,000 as one of the National Football League's highest paid quarterbacks, has mixed emotions about the NFL Players' Association battle plans.

With Cowboys president Tex Schramm listening in, Meredith said he thought "some of the association's proposals had merit, but that he was 'on the surface' opposed to unions and that he thought there should be a "better way to solve the problems" than a strike.

"I think our profession is still a game and I hate to see the players destroy it," Meredith said. "I think a union could do just that. I think a strike would hurt the players much more than the league."

Meredith was quick to admit that he feels, like most other veteran pro players, that the pre-season situation has "gotten out of hand" and that veteran players are being required to "play too much" because of the public-inspired desire to win these games instead of to use them as testing grounds for new personnel as they were originally intended.

"The pre-season, since I've been with Dallas (1960), has grown tremendously," he said. "There's been an increased emphasis on winning, so that all the top players have to play."

"But I think $500 (per game, as proposed by the players group) is a little too high. With a squad of 60, that's $30,000 and I'm not sure a team's share of the gate is much more than that a lot of times."

sixth try, drove a turbocharged four-cylinder car to a record-breaking triumph Thursday, and on Friday night he was to receive his payoff, an estimated $200,000, at the traditional victory dinner.

The official standings, as posted by the United States Automobile club (USAC) confirmed that Unser won Thursday's rich race at an average speed of 132.682 miles per hour, eclipsing the previous mark of 151.207 mph by A. J. Foyt last year.

Runnerup Dan Gurney also beat the old record with a clocking of 152.187. The next three, Mel Kenyon, Denis Hulme, the reigning Grand Prix world champion from New Zealand, and Lloyd Ruby, also completed the distance of 200 laps.

Unser led 127 laps, Ruby 42, and Joe Leonard in one of three identical turbine-powered machines in the race, the other 31. Leonard was leading by about seven seconds with nine laps to go when mechanical failure wrecked a turbine's bid for victory for the second year in a row.

The lead changed hands eight times between Leonard, Unser and Ruby. Unser, Gurney, Kenyon and Hulme went the distance for the first time.

Timing and scoring records also showed that Ruby ran the fastest lap ever in the race. He was clocked at a speed of 168.666 mph on his 90th lap. Unser had the fastest lap on the leading cars, 167.348 mph, the 110th time around the 2 1/2-mile oval.

Turbocar owner Andy Granatelli, denied apparent victory again—Parnelli Jones was within nine miles of winning last year when his transmission failed—said his future plans were uncertain. He had three cars in the race and of five powered by turbine he brought to the Speedway this spring, three have been wrecked.

Graham Hill, a former "500" winner, crashed Thursday. He was among the contenders at one time in the race.

Both Leonard, the pole-sitter, and Art Pollard in the other turbine car, went out of the race at almost the same time late in the race because of fuel system failure, Granatelli said. "That they failed within a minute of each other was a coincidence," said Granatelli. Ironically, if final carburetion tests Tuesday had been washed out completely, he said one of his cars would have won the race.

"We only had eight more laps to go," he said. Leonard ran 16 laps during carburetion tests which were cut from three hours to 44 minutes because of rain. Granatelli believed that if the car had not run the 16-lap test the fuel system would have held up for the 500 miles.

Hill's car crashed because of a failure in the right front suspension, which involved new parts ordered by USAC to conform with specifications, Granatelli said.

He blamed the fuel flame-outs on reduced speeds during Carl Williams' fiery accident. When normal speed was resumed, both Leonard's and Pollard's engines simply died.

"That we didn't have the power was clearly demonstrated," Granatelli said. "Our engines had 430 horsepower while Unser had at least 640. Unser was okay as long as he was the leader, but in traffic he didn't have the power to pass."

The turbine's power was ordered reduced by one-third last summer by USAC's rule-makers in an attempt to arrive at a formula similar to those for piston engines.

"We were definitely under-powered in traffic," said Leonard. He explained the turbine sucks up exhaust fumes from other cars and engine heat is increased drastically while the power falls off.

"It's just like a jet taking off on a hot summer day. It uses a lot more runway because it can't produce the power it could otherwise," Leonard said.

Granatelli refuted charges that Leonard "held back."

Miami ABA squad signs Don Sidle

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Miami Beach's new and still unnamed American Basketball Association team, formerly the Muskies of Minneapolis, announced Friday the signing of their first draft choice, Don Sidle of the University of Oklahoma.

The team, being moved here for the 1968-69 season, said Sidle signed a two-year, no-cut contract. No financial details were released.

The six-foot-eight Sidle had a 20-point per game average in his senior year at Oklahoma and hit on 59 per cent of his shots from the floor.

Only 10 per cent of the early starters were able to break par over the 7,053 yard Atlanta Country Club course and only one, Rocky Thompson with a 70, was at even par 144 after 36 holes.

The field was to be trimmed to the low 70 scores and ties, plus anyone else still within 10 strokes of the leader at the end of Friday's play. The way the scores were running, it looked as though the cut would be about 6 over par 150.

No one, including the players still on the course, was closer

Carol Mann ups winnings to $13,270

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Carol Mann still enjoyed a comfortable lead this week in the earnings race of the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) despite a sizeable gain by second-place Kathy Whitworth.

LPGA headquarters here said Miss Mann boosted her money winnings to $13,270 with a second-place finish in the Dallas Civitan open tournament Sunday.

Miss Whitworth won the tournament to fatten her income by $2,775 to $11,845.

Clifford Ann Creed made the biggest jump in the standings this week, from eighth to fifth place with total earnings of $5,763.

The driver was one Nicklaus had repaired after he broke it last year during an exhibition tour in South Africa. "When it broke, I think the head traveled as far as the ball," he quipped. Nicklaus sent back to the clubhouse for another driver he had in his locker and missed three out of the five fairways on which he used it.

Nicklaus promised himself he would get rid of the "excess baggage" tag bandied about when his name was mentioned in competition with established slingers.

"I never could play more than five or six games in a row," Nicklaus remembers. "How can you shape your career and make an impression if they won't give you the chance?"

The Yankees gave Kosco the opening after scouting him extensively.

I was so upset after talking to the teacher that my husband decided to go to school the following day. He didn't get on with her worth a damn. He then talked to the boys who hit our son. As a result of that conversation the boys went back to the teacher and told her my husband called her and the whole class liars which was not true. The next day the teacher made my son apologize to the class in behalf of his father.

Now my son hates school and is mad at us for getting mixed up in what he calls "his business". Don't you feel it is the responsibility of parents to see that their children are not abused or treated unfairly?

—100 PER CENT PARENTS

Dear 100 Per Cent: Here are my views but I don't think you'll like them. Your son is justified in feeling that you should not have become mixed up in his business.

In the future don't type up any more cards for him, don't go to school and fight his battles with the teachers and don't become involved in his squabbles with other children. I'm not saying the teacher handled this incident too well, but the important thing for you to realize is that kids who have too much done for them become dependent and indolent.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in behalf of my 7th grade son. The boys in his class are making life miserable for him. Here's the reason.

I wanted to be a helpful mother so I typed a card with the names of 56 men who signed the Declaration of Independence. He then memorized the names for a test and took the card to school.

Two days later my son came home crying. He said two boys in his room had roughed him up. I went to school the next day to talk to the teacher. She told me the reason the boys were mad at my son was because he had cheated in a test — copied some names off a card. I didn't believe it and I still West hearts had been divided somewhat differently, the notrump game might also easily have been made.

It may be argued that South should have rebid three clubs instead of three notrump, and the excellent contract of five clubs might then have been reached.

The chief flaw with this argument is that three clubs is generally not regarded as forcing rebid but merely an invitational bid, and South might very well have found himself left at the post.

At the second table the bidding started exactly the same way when South also jumped to three notrump over the diamond response. But the North player at this table apparently prized his hand much more highly than the previous North because he raised three notrump directly to six notrump.

This bold bid paid off extremely well. West thought it much too dangerous to lead a heart against such strong bidding and therefore tried the "safe" lead of the ten of spades. South had no trouble raking in 13 tricks for a score of 1470 points and thus brought his team a net gain of 1670 points on the deal.

Pull down your dress. Get off the phone. Wash your neck. Hang up your coat. Turn down the music. Cut your hair — bla bla bla — What advice do you have for me, Ann? I think I'm the one who is going to have the nervous breakdown.

This deal occurred in a team of four matches, but what happened could just as easily have taken place in a rubber bridge game.

At one table the bidding went as shown. West led a heart and East won with the ace and returned a heart. The defense quickly scored six heart tricks and South went down two despite his 31 high-card points.

It is hard to blame South for the outcome. Looking at only his 13 cards, it seems entirely reasonable to rebid three notrump over the diamond response. Three notrump is likely to be the winning bid on an overwhelming majority of hands.

Reading is still the fastest way to program the human brain.

Man's brain, the human computer, faces a problem. Like man-made computers, the brain can process data with such lightning speed that men are hard-pressed to devise ways of feeding it information fast enough.

In fact, the human brain has been called the world's finest, most expensive computer. By comparison, the largest electronic computer in use today looks like a child's plaything.

But in an era of "information explosion," how do you "program" information to the human brain? Spoken language is far too slow. The average person speaks about 150 words per minute. The mind can think far faster than that.

In fact, man has yet to devise a means of feeding information to his brain that is more efficient than the written word. Fast readers can read up to 1,500 words a minute—ten times the average rate for the spoken word. Scanning can accelerate this rate still more.

Perhaps some day men will devise some electronic system to program their own brains more rapidly. Until they do, no method is as efficient as the written word.

The alphabet, movable type and the printing press are among man's oldest inventions. But as tools for furthering human knowledge they are as modern as the most modern computer.

Perhaps this is the reason more people still get more information from daily newspapers than from any other source.

College scholarships

BANGOR — Twenty-four students have been awarded college scholarships in a nationwide competition sponsored by the American Water Works Foundation.

The scholarship awards were announced by Frederick W. Baker, manager of The Bangor Water Company, which is one of 88 investor-owned water utilities in the American Water Works Company System. The System provides water service to 4.6 million residents of 500 communities in 19 states.

The awards were based on the recipients' performance in the College Entrance Examination Board tests administered by Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey.

American Water Works Foundation each year awards scholarships to outstanding college-bound children of employees and customers served directly by American Water Works System companies. This year, 12 scholarships were awarded in each category.

There were no appointments from the area this year.

Boon for traveling

NEW YORK — A boon for the traveling businessman has been announced by Trans World Airlines, according to E. P. Burke, eastern region vice president of sales and services.

Having received a revised interpretation of the Federal Aviation Administration's regulations pertaining to "Carry-on" baggage, which is less stringent than previous directives, TWA will soon make life easier for the traveler carrying garment bags.

The first major step will be the modification of TWA's 727, 707 and 707-131 StarStream jet fleet to include a 24 inch garment bag storage area. This project, currently underway, should be completed by August 1.

Another major change will also allow passengers carrying a garment bag containing the equivalent of two suits to stow it in either the coat compartment or the overhead rack. Garment bags with larger amounts of clothing can be stored either in the coat department or under the passenger's seat.

SHRUBS FOR WET SPOTS: If you have a few wet spots and want something that will grow there, try Sweet Shrub, Clump Birch, Pink Spirea, Highbush Cranberry, Pepper Bush, Pussy Willow, Silver Maple, and Weeping Willow.

AFRICAN VIOLETS: Growers all tell you that an east window is the best for African Violets. This may be true but violets will grow in practically every window in the house.

An east window is better because it reaches the plants early in the day when their energies are low (after hours of darkness). The early morning sunshine acts as a booster to the plants and helps them along. Too much light will cause the foliage to have a yellow blanched look. When plants are growing lopsided, it means one side is getting more light than the other. Turn your plants regularly so that all parts will get the same amount of light and you'll have a better

Yours won't bear in the home because you have to have a male and female tree. It's worth a try, however, and if you get seeds to grow you'll have a conversation piece.

N. J. men charged with larceny

STROUDSBURG — Three New Jersey men posted $500 bond each and were released Thursday afternoon from the Monroe County Jail after they were arrested on a charge of larceny.

They are: Frederick Cole, 23, of 47 Front St., Belvidere; Richard C. Allen, 28, Glen Garden, and Raymond S. George, 25, Box 96, Columbia.

The three men were arrested by Stroud Township patrolman Robert LaBar after Mrs. Florence Scheinbaum, proprietor of the Charcoal Hearth on Route 611, issued the warrant for their arrest on a charge of larceny. The incident took place at 1:35 a.m. Thursday.

The Antonacci car was most severely damaged and had to be towed from the scene, Tebbs said.

Voit lost control of his car when it struck a puddle as he was on his way to work from Stroudsburg on Route 191, Tebbs said. Damage was estimated at $1,800.

Kenneth H. Norton, 35, of 17 Logan St., Elizabeth, made restitution at the hearing, paid the fee and was released.

Both men were arraigned before Mrs. Ruth Miller, justice of the peace, each pleading guilty to the charge of shoplifting a carton of cigarettes, made by Stanley T. Popis, prosecutor.

The Antonacci car was most severely damaged and had to be towed from the scene, Tebbs said.

Another major change will also allow passengers carrying a garment bag containing the equivalent of two suits to stow it in either the coat compartment or the overhead rack. Garment bags with larger amounts of clothing can be stored either in the coat department or under the passenger's seat.

They are: Frederick Cole, 23, of 47 Front St., Belvidere; Richard C. Allen, 28, Glen Garden, and Raymond S. George, 25, Box 96, Columbia.

The new president and officers will be inducted at the session by International Counselor Lion Ralph Lockhard of the Richmond Lions Club.

Long open views are much in evidence here, with only wrought iron rails dividing the living room and the formal dining room, and with an extra-long kitchen which permits a considerable part of it to be used as an informal dining area.

ON THE HOUSE

AP Newsfeatures

There are four standard methods of unclogging a sink drain. Fortunately, any or all of them can be utilized by the amateur plumber with an almost certain chance of a successful result.

Only when the stoppage point is a long way from the troubled sink (such as in the outside drainage line) will all these methods fail, in which case you will need the services of a professional. But that kind of stoppage usually will show up at other plumbing fixtures, rather than a single sink, a tip-off to get a plumber immediately.

The easiest way to open a clogged sink drain—and the one that should be tried first—is use a rubber plunger or "plumber's friend." Most home owners keep one around the house. Before using the plunger, plug up any overflow outlet in the sink with a wet rag. Kitchen sinks usually don't have such outlets, but bathroom basins often do.

Place the rubber cup of the plunger directly over the drain opening, which should have at least two or three inches of water over it. Hold the handle with both hands. Press down, then lift the cup very quickly. The suction action often will dislodge minor obstructions. Sometimes this will work immediately; sometimes you have to repeat the suction movement a dozen or more times.

Materials that do not come loose with a plunger usually can be handled with a "snake" or auger. While these words mean the same to most persons—both tools being long, flexible wires with hooks on the ends—the auger is the more powerful, having a crank handle to induce a corkscrew action. A snake is inserted into the drain and jiggled around with an up-and-down movement. In using an auger, the crank handle is turned in a clockwise direction. (You can get Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Make Simple Plumbing Repairs," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

If the obstructions can not be dislodged in either of these ways, it is necessary to open the trap, the U-shape pipe under the fixture. It is opened by taking off the cleanout plug at the bottom of the U or, if there is no clean-out plug, by unscrewing the nuts that hold the U in place. Remember that there is water in the drain, so be sure to place a pail or other container under the trap before going to work on it. Use a snake or piece of wire with a hook on the end of it to pull out any clogged material on either side of the trap. Be sure to replace the plug before you turn on the water.

The fourth method of unclogging a drain is with a commercial cleaner. Since it is a strong chemical, work very carefully. Different brands call for different ways of using, so read and follow the directions to the letter. Such cleaners often are especially and quickly effective if the drain is only partially stopped. Their purpose is to dissolve accumulated matter, such as grease which has blocked the passage of food particles. Used regularly, they can prevent stoppage.

Carelessness causes drain clogging. Solid materials, such as pieces of vegetables and coffee grounds, belong in the garbage pail. So do fats and greases, which cling to the sides of the pipe and eventually trap the other materials. When fats and greases do go down the drain, as might be the case during the washing of dishes, let the hot water run for a few minutes to flush the pipe thoroughly.

Watershed plan nears completion

Recently I had occasion to do another varnishing job. The brush was soft and apparently in good shape, but after I had used it, I found tiny flakes here and there on the surface of the wet varnish. There was no movement of dust in the room, so it wasn't from that. I am convinced the flakes came from the brush. Can you tell me what caused this?

Answer: The repair procedure is the same for the outside and inside faucets. The first and most important step in each case is to turn off the water supply to that particular faucet or, if there is no shut-off valve, the main water supply to the house. Unscrew the cap nut below the handle, take out the stem and replace the washer at the end of it.

If this doesn't stop the drip, then the faucet seat—the part inside the faucet after the stem is removed—must be smoothed. This can be done with a seat-dressing tool available at any hardware store. Remember that all of this is based on the assumption that the drip is coming from the mouth of the faucet and not from under the cap nut.

If the latter is the case, tightening the nut may be all that is necessary. If this doesn't help, unscrew the cap nut and replace the cordlike material or packing under it.

Question: About six months ago I bought a varnish brush for use on a coffee table I had

House of the Week

Modern home, traditional features

By ANDY LANG

Traditional in appearance, with an air of warmth and comfort, this ranch would be an attractive addition to any community in any part of the country.

The exterior tastefully blends walls of hand-split shingles with a touch of brick veneer, both in harmony with a long ridge roof line divided to relieve the monotony of a straight profile.

The lowered cupola, massive cement-topped chimney and diamond-paneled box bay window in the garage all seem to fit naturally into the picture of a home that breathes hospitality.

Speaking of the garage, note that it juts out from the left side of the house, with the drive-way running parallel to the main structure.

This raises the overall dimensions to 74 feet by 66 feet, eight inches, but a considerable part of the depth figure is due to the placement of the garage. Actually, much of the space is occupied by shrubbery and other landscaping.

A covered, long portico leads to the centrally-located entranceway and foyer. The latter combines spaciousness with a convenient starting point for traffic flow.

Directly to the rear of the foyer is a sunken living room, the two being separated by a wrought iron rail. Featured in the living room is a large picture window unit set in a bay window.

To the left of the living room is the formal dining room, with a wrought iron rail again acting as a divider but without cutting the open view of more than 32 feet.

To the right of the foyer, architect William G. Chigotis has placed a wood-paneled family room with a brick-faced fireplace that is visible almost immediately after entering the front door.

While the family will like this room, it is Mom in particular who will love the kitchen layout.

Over 23 feet long and equipped with the most modern appliances, it has a world of counter and storage space, plus a dinette area large enough for all day-to-day meals rather than breakfast for.

This means that the regular dining room need be used only for formal affairs and special occasions. Besides the window over the kitchen sink, there is a large window area in the dinette section.

Between the kitchen and the garage is the laundry room, which contains a pantry closet for the storage of canned foods as well as cleaning supplies and equipment. The laundry room has two doors, one leading to the outdoors and one to the garage.

Z-43 STATISTICS

Design Z-43 has a sunken living room, dining room, kitchen-dinette combination, three bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, a family room, foyer and laundry room, with a habitable area of 2,336 square feet. The overall dimensions are 74 feet by 66 feet, eight inches, which include the two-car garage, driveway and front lawn. Entrance is via a large covered portico.

To the left of the living room is the formal dining room, with a wrought iron rail again acting as a divider but without cutting the open view of more than 32 feet.

To the right of the foyer, architect William G. Chigotis has placed a wood-paneled family room with a brick-faced fireplace that is visible almost immediately after entering the front door.
